

Vets' Meet In Union 5 Today

Election of Officers,
Annual Reports
On Agenda

Student veterans of McGill will meet in the Union Ballroom today, Tuesday, at five p.m., to consider the reports of the past year's Executive and to elect officers for the ensuing year. The presidential report, together with a statement on educational grants, and the financial report have been issued, and are published in today's Daily.

Members may be enrolled in the Society starting at four o'clock in the Ballroom, where Ernie Temple will be in charge of the membership cards. In order to ensure that there will be a quorum, the Executive have followed the procedure of last year in delaying the issuance of membership tickets until the day of the meeting. Fifty per cent of the membership is required for the quorum.

ELECTIONS BY 6.10

The meeting will start at five and as the reports have previously appeared in the Daily it is hoped by the Executive that the election of officers will be reached by 6.10 in order that students may leave in time for their evening meal. Together with the reports a resolution of thanks to McGill will be proposed for their cooperation during the past year.

All veterans, who have been honourably discharged from any of the Allied fighting forces, are entitled to join the Society and participate in the meetings. The Executive hope that all veterans at McGill will turn out and take an interest in their Society. Thus, they feel, that whatever decisions are reached will represent the views of the majority of McGill's many veterans.

Radio Figures Deliver Talk To Workshop

The campus Radio Workshop "School of Radio" ended last night with four talks, delivered by well known Canadian radio personalities, Elsiebeth Chisholm, Christopher Ellis, Marcel Giguere and Al Cauley.

Mr. Cauley, of CJAD, started the meeting with a talk on the preparation and presentation of special events. The speaker later gave a practical demonstration by a recording and play back of an "actuality" of the meeting itself. Lloyd Sharkey of CJAD, acted as engineer for this stunt.

"Activity in Radio" was the topic of Christopher Ellis, who emphasized that the line of separation between stage and radio acting was very slim. Mr. Ellis pointed out that in radio, as on the stage, the actor must submerge himself and his characteristics into those of the character portrayed.

CBC's Elsiebeth Chisholm, spoke on "Talks and Interviews" stressing those points which would prove most useful to those participating in the proposed campus shows. Miss Chisholm is a lecturer at Queen's Summer Radio Institute.

"Timing, timing, timing," was the theme of the lively talk given by Marcel Giguere of CKAC. Mr. Giguere, considered a foster-father of the Radio Workshop, introduced students to a typical radio studio and outlined errors and pitfalls to be avoided.

Guest speakers were introduced by the co-founders of Radio Workshop, Duncan (Don) Cameron and Charles Wasserman, both of whom described the labor pains of creation back in 1942.

Workshop vice-president Ed Werner, moved a vote of thanks to the radio professionals present, who had given of their time and talent to ensure the success of the school.

Students Asked to Criticize Policy of Modern University

A call to all students to study and criticize the modern university and to make their influence felt in its policies has just been issued by the National Council of the Student Christian Movement of Canada which met early in September.

Delegates from sixteen universities across Canada came together at Geneva Park, Lake Couchiching, Ontario, for ten days of study and planning in connection with the policies and program of the S.C.M. of Canada for the coming year. Dr. James S. Thomson, President of the University of Saskatchewan, presided at some of the sessions as chairman of the Movement. Vincent Goring, past president McGill S.C.M. in his capacity as vice chairman of the National Movement, acted as chairman of the remainder of the sessions.

The Council discussed and passed reports on the topics, "The Task of the Christian in the University," "The Evangelistic Task of the S.C.M.," "The Ecumenical Task of the S.C.M.," and "The Political Aims and Responsibilities of the Christian Student." In the latter report the Council very strongly condemned the Truman Doctrine and the Marshall Plan and any other unilateral action outside the United Nations.

A stand was also taken against the economic doctrine of "Free Enterprise." Because we believe that the land and means of production are ultimately God-given and that men should hold this property in stewardship for God, we feel that free enterprise with its emphasis on the complete right of the individual to do what he will with his property, is basically anti-Christian. . . . we suggest that a system of economic democracy, in which the land and means are operated by the elected representatives of the people to meet the needs of all, is potentially more Christian than the present one and is, therefore, a goal towards which Christians ought to work.

Basing their decision on fundamental theological beliefs, the student delegates affirmed the necessity for Christians to take a stand on current controversial political and social issues. In the name of the Student Christian Movement they affirmed their close relationship with the Churches, not as a subordinate youth group, but as an autonomous student movement within the Christian Church, with a distinctive contribution to make as such.

Among the plans made for the coming year was an assignment to each local unit of the Movement of an area of study and action within the general heading of Political Affairs. McGill S.C.M. undertook, and has already taken steps, to set up a commission on labor-management affairs, which will issue a report for general use as well as for consideration by the next National Council in the Fall of 1948.

ACS Tickets Selling Today At $5 Couple

The Arts, Commerce and Science Ball Committee has announced that tickets will be on sale today in the Book Exchange of the Union from 8.45 to 5.00 a couple. Arrangements for table reservations and corsages were also disclosed.

Any undergraduate student can purchase a ticket while a block of tickets have been made available to the Faculty of Law through Des Thomas.

It was also announced that table reservations will be made on Wednesday, Nov. 6 and Monday, Nov. 11 through Betty Brewer and Jack Ronson. A table will be located in the Union for this purpose.

Orders for flowers can also be placed on these same dates at a 15 per cent reduction it was stated. Jim Peers of the Athletics Office has made arrangements with Louis Quinze to supply the corsages. It was announced further that the Athletics Office will also be receiving a portion of the profits obtained from the sale of the flowers.

Varsity Hopes to Cut Cost of Education

(By Canadian University Press)
The Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto recently approved two motions aimed at decreasing the cost of higher education at U. of T. The Council approved the motion that the Department of Veterans' Affairs be requested by the S.A.C. to raise allowances for veteran students in accord with increased costs of living, and to change the present inadequate scheme of allowances to married students.

Commerce To Debate With Plumbers Today

The Interfaculty Debating League will present Engineers vs. Commerce in a debate to be held at 1 p.m. in Room 33, in the Engineering Bldg.

The subject of the debate will be: Resolved that Military Training should be Compulsory in Canada. Bob Johnson and Dennis Stairs of the Engineers will uphold the affirmative, while the negative will be upheld by Charles LeRoy and Eric Colbert of Commerce. Paul Orr, past president of the Loyola Debating League, will act as critic.

Senate Alters Athletic Setup; Supports Amateurism Policy

Interested in the welfare of McGill's 8,000 students, the Senate and Governors, latest step is the setting up of a separate department for athletics, physical education, and recreation.

Last year a separate student health department was created. The latest move involves taking another department away from the formerly combined set-up, the school of physical education which now comes under the faculty of medicine.

Dr. F. Cyril James recently released a report of the special committee of Senate on student athletics in which a number of far-reaching recommendations are made. The report emphasizes the university's policy of supporting amateurism in athletics, and a desire to give every student at the university an opportunity to participate in sports, rather than just being spectators.

With suggestions from the Athletics' Council, the McGill Women Students Athletics Association, and all interested graduate and undergraduate bodies, the new pro-

Mary Stephens Becomes President; Dawson Students Elect Representatives

Muskatov Named Society President

After six days of choosing, thinking and reading platforms, the students of Dawson finally went to the polls yesterday to elect their new students' government. Beginning with last Tuesday, many posters could have been seen in various places, telling students who to vote for. The highlight of the week was the election rally which was held on Tuesday evening. It marked the beginning of the students' campaigns, as the time approached last evening for the disclosure of the results. Everybody was tense and all eyes were turned toward Mr. Hilliard's office where the ballots were being counted. The results of the countings is as follows:

Paul Cullin was elected as president of the Arts and Science Undergraduate Society with 96 votes. Mervin Silverberg came a close second with 93 votes while George Kozoriz and David E. T. Schock were runners-up with 60 votes and 28 votes, respectively.

Hy. Reiser became vice-president of arts and science with a total of 115 votes. He was followed up by Zolten B. Nyeste and Ivan Midlin who had 98 and 54 votes. In the engineering department George B. Beattie won the seat of presidency of Engineering Undergraduate Society with a total of 155 votes. He was seconded by W. B. Millholland who obtained 65 votes. Bryan Bourke and Joseph F. Bromberger placed third and fourth in the running with 61 and 54 votes respectively.

President
George W. Piper became vice-president with 167 votes, while his opponent, J. K. MacDonald obtained 139 votes.

The president of the student society is Bob Muskatov, who obtained 341 votes; his runner-up was J. E. MacCallister with 232 votes.

Joseph Conrad is the new chairman of the canteen committee, with a vote of 308; his opponent, A. W. Savery, obtained 286 votes.

The chairman of the new committee is Arthur Flamer, who has 338 votes; he was seconded by Ian C. Grant with 286 votes.

Athletics Council
William Young obtained 356 votes for the seat of representative of the Athletics Council; Dave Sigler, who also contested the seat, obtained 250 votes.

Peter Daniels was voted in as chairman of the Mess Committee with 328 votes. Gil Weil and J. Zulinov placed second and third with 146 and 116 votes.

Out of approximately 1,000 students, 62 per cent cast their ballots. This is compared to 62 per cent last year.

NOTICE FOR DAWSON STUDENTS
McGill Placement Service registration for employment during the Christmas vacation period will take place at Dawson College, on Tuesday, November 4th from 10.30 to 3.00 p.m. All students who wish to register should apply at the Student Counsellor's office in Dawson Hall.

NFCUS Holds Banquet For Club Leaders

At a banquet held in the Union last night, McGill N.F.C.U.S. (National Federation of Canadian University Students) was host to the presidents of some thirty of the major campus organizations.

Guest speaker for the evening was Mr. John N. McDonald, who was a very active member of the McGill student body a few years ago. His career at McGill included the positions of Editor of the Daily for two consecutive years, President of the Union, Vice-president of the Student Executive Council. Serving with the Royal Canadian Navy, he became the youngest Commander in that service during the war and he was later appointed to the post of director of Naval Rehabilitation for Canada.

His address outlined the revival of N.F.C.U.S. that occurred during his undergraduate years at McGill and the immediate implementation of national students services that followed. Such an organization as the Canadian University Press, of which he became the first president, was formed.

Through the intermingling of Canadians from coast to coast during the war years a great broadening of outlook had occurred, Mr. McDonald pointed out. Mr. McDonald's closing remarks urged "that we perpetrate that broadness of mind in Canadian students through support and participation in the National Federation of Canadian University Students."

Marcel Joyal, Chairman of McGill N.F.C.U.S., then brought to the attention of the guests two specific projects that McGill N.F.C.U.S. planned to implement on the campus this year.

These plans were:

(a) An Inter University Students' Forum for the four universities in the Montreal area.
(b) A McGill N.F.C.U.S. Council, whose purpose would be to provide liaison between campus clubs at McGill and corresponding clubs at universities across Canada and also serve as a co-ordinating body for McGill campus activities. All campus organizations would have representation on this council.

Guests were then asked to discuss these tentative plans. There was unanimous agreement that both the suggested projects were desirable and various club representatives promised full support.

Before closing, Chairman Joyal promised that both plans would receive full attention immediately following the McGill N.F.C.U.S. general meeting to be held at the end of this week.

Atomic Age Is Subject Of Political Discussion

Marcel Joyal, President of the McGill Liberal Club and Bill Ornstein, President of the McGill L.P.P. Club, will be the speakers at a meeting of the Political Science Club on Wednesday at 1 p.m. in the Union Musicroom. The subject chosen for discussion is "The Attitude of My Party on Atomic Energy Control".

Each speaker will give a ten minute talk in which he will outline briefly the attitude and policy of his party with regard to the control measures presented at the United Nations Organization. The meeting will then be thrown open to discussion and questions by the speakers and the meeting as a whole.

Marcel Joyal is known on the campus as a leading debater and orator, and he is also the President of the McGill chapter of N.F.C.U.S. A student of law he is well versed in the legal details of the subject.

U. of Manitoba Has Student Date Bureau

(By Canadian University Press)

A date bureau is now in full operation for the convenience of students of the University of Manitoba who have not taken part in the university dances because they do not know or are too shy to find a partner. This service is backed by the Students' Union.

The idea for the committee originated with the two chairmen. They were alarmed at the large number of their acquaintances who never attended parties or dances, and decided to do something about it.

The members of the committee receive requests for dates and attempt to satisfy the desires of the students with as little embarrassment as possible. In order to better insure the success of their undertaking they consider the age, height, preferences, abilities, and interests of each applicant, as well as deal with such pertinent facts as the students' preference for popular or classical music.

They find that embarrassment is their main problem. To combat this all introductions are made as smooth and natural as possible, and all information is kept strictly confidential.

The committee operates with the belief that everyone needs to get out occasionally and have a good time. It does not guarantee an engagement ring for each girl or a fiancée for each boy in as short a period as two weeks, but it does hope to arrange for suitable escorts.

Remembrance Day The University will be closed on Remembrance Day, Tuesday, 11th November, 1947.

Hillel Hears Wm. Herberg In Second Talk of Series

"Jewish Religion as a Dynamic of Social Action," was the subject of the talk given by Mr. Will Herberg yesterday at Hillel House.

Mr. Herberg, noted lecturer on social and labour affairs, stated that we are living in an age of crisis—moral and spiritual as well as economic. The Renaissance brought about the experiment of secularism and two philosophies have dominated the thought of the last three centuries—bourgeois liberalism and Marxist Socialism.

Mr. Herberg pointed out that life devoted only to life is without value. Man cannot do without something beyond the immediate. If he turns his back on God he manufactures idols—the nation, the state, the party, which he regards as absolute.

The speaker went on to say that social problems are moral questions, religious and theological as well. The dynamic for social action is to be found in our Judeo-Christian heritage which teaches us faith

Polls 456 Votes For Majority of 44

Mary Stephens became the new President of the Women's Union at the election held yesterday, when over seventy per cent of the women students turned out at the polls to participate in the voting.

This second election was necessary due to a technical error which occurred at one of the polling booths during the election last Thursday.

Ann Ryan had previously been elected President by a slight plurality but an irregularity at the polling booth necessitated a new election. On this last occasion the polling booth at Beatty House opened Class officers are to be elected tomorrow, Wednesday, Nov. 5, by all undergraduates of the Arts and Science Faculty. The polls, which are to be in the Men's Common Room and the Women's Common Room in the Arts Building and at R.V.C. for resident students, will be open from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. There will be no voting at Dawson.

The chief returning officer at the polls will be David Fricker.

In order to vote, the undergraduate must present his membership card received at the time of registration. If, for any reason, a member of the Faculty of Arts and Science does not have this card, he can obtain it at the poll at the time of voting. Library cards must be presented as means of identification.

The candidates are: Second Year: Vice-president, Joan Bayer, Nancy Wilson; Third Year: President, Douglas Riddle, Fraser Vipond; Vice-president, Barbara Ann Brown, Joan Radley; Secretary, Elizabeth Atkinson, Louise Ferrier; Fourth Year: President, Bob McKay, Nat Wolf.

Red & White Society Opens Student Drive

A reorganized Red and White Society will commence an intensive membership campaign today.

Designed to further campus spirit by means of dances, rallies, and other recreational activities, the Society will man registration desks in the main faculty buildings today. Desks will be located in the Arts and Engineering buildings, at Royal Victoria College, and in the McGill Union.

Under its new organizational policy, the Society hopes to include as many students as possible in its activities. Greater student participation, it is felt, will contribute much to campus spirit.

Members of the executive urge all students to join the society, pointing out that it is a "great opportunity to meet people and to participate actively in campus life." The Society, it is pointed out, has already commenced activities for the year. Last Saturday's Football Frolic was one of its products.

MARY STEPHENS

ened two hours late and several students were unable to place their ballots.

In the former balloting, Ann Ryan and Mary Stephens took a commanding lead and almost tied. The Executive therefore felt that the best way to clarify the situation was to hold the re-election between the two leading candidates, the two others having agreed to withdraw.

Barbara Jackson, Vice-President of the Women's Union, announced the figures on the second election which gave Mary Stephens four hundred and fifty-six votes and Ann Ryan, four hundred and twelve votes giving a majority of forty-four votes to the successful candidate in this second election.

Dawson Unit Of U.N.T.D. Now Planned

Lt. Cdr. D. C. Bain (R.C.N.C.R.), Commanding officer of the McGill Division of the U.N.T.D., has announced complete plans for a full naval training syllabus for the Dawson unit of the U.N.T.D. This Division was active last year and once again intends to offer the necessary training courses for the first and second years of the U.N.T.D. program.

Drill nights will be every Tuesday at 1900, with officers of the Naval Reserve in charge of instruction and administration. Subjects included in the first two years of training include pilotage, seamanship and organization. A summer training course which may last from two weeks to the full vacation period, as the individual desires, will be given next summer. (Continued on page 4.)

Charity Campaign Has $3,800 to Date

Complete figures for the Combined Charities Campaign cannot be announced yet, as all proceeds have not been completed, it was announced last night. The total receipts to date have been given as $3,800.

From October 17 until the drive officially closed on November 1, volunteer canvassers urged students for contributions to reach the $5,000 objective. In addition, a raffle was held, the winner obtaining a trip to the McGill-Varsity game at Toronto. On Saturday, November 1, McGill girls canvassed the stands at Molson Stadium in a last attempt to put the campaign over the top. When the proceeds from this canvass are known, the complete figure will be obtained.

These proceeds will be divided among the city's three main charitable organizations: Welfare Federation, Jewish Philanthropies, and Catholic Charities.

VETERANS AND MCGILL

Among the many student organizations on the McGill campus, there is one which has achieved, during the past few years, a notable record in its services to veterans.

It would require more space than is permitted to review the complete—and often controversial—history of the McGill Student Veterans Society.

And student veterans will be given the opportunity to judge the past activities of their society tonight at 5 p.m. when they attend the first general meeting of the current year. The gathering will be held in the Union Ballroom.

A brief glance over the past history of the society demonstrates that in the fields of veterans' housing, pensions, allowances and employment the society has been second to none in energy and initiative.

The M.S.V.S. was originally organized to deal with those problems which were peculiar to student veterans—namely housing and allowances; to speak for them on these matters, with which they were intimately concerned; and to unite them on a social basis—the 'Vet's Dos' last year reached tremendously enjoyable proportions.

Another contribution of the McGill Society is that of the annual National conference of Student Veterans, a nation-wide assembly which integrates the work of all individual university veterans' groups.

Yesterday's issue of The Daily—and today's—carried some of the reports of the society's work during the past year. They were issued by the present executive of the society so that individual members may become acquainted with the work done. This should provide the basis for understanding and discussion at the meeting tonight.

One of the most important items, however, is the election of a new executive for the coming year. The choice of an executive, naturally, is an important one: on it will depend the future direction and initiative of the society. But we feel sure that the veterans know what they want—and will get it.—A.T.

RED AND WHITE SOCIETY

A new organization has arisen on the campus.

It is a new organization with an old name. For students are perfectly familiar with the Red and White Society. But this year's Society is commencing its activities in a new organizational guise.

One of the principal aims of the "new" society is to enroll as many participant members as possible. To accomplish this end, the Society is launching an intensive membership drive.

The membership drive starts today. Registration will take place in the larger faculty buildings.

The Red and White Society was organized in the fall of 1945; its main objective was that of furthering campus spirit by means of dances, excursions, rallies, and canvassing for worthy causes.

The Society, however, because of organizational difficulties, had to undergo an almost complete reconstruction at the beginning of this year. The new organization promises to be much more effective than it has been in the past.

But it will only be as effective as its members make it. If the membership drive fails today, the Red and White Society will lapse into insignificance; with a large, energetic enrolment, students may expect to see an extremely active group.—A.T.

A Story for Student Veterans

By David and Goliath

The Shrine was dim in the thick fog that lay along Queen's Row. Street lamps guttered darkly, casting long shadows across the walk that led to the door, and shrouding lanes and alleys in deep obscurity. So permeating was the fog that it reached in even through closed doors and windows, filling the Back Room of the Shrine with a penetrating chill.

The two figures hunched over the small table in a corner of the Back Room had the air of conspirators. They spoke in whispers, although the room was empty except for themselves and the waiter who lurked in the shadows of the bar.

"Penniless," whispered the taller conspirator to his small companion, "what can we do about it?"

The one called Penniless shook his head. "I don't know," he admitted hoarsely, "but I'm tempted to quit, Mournful."

"What!" exclaimed Mournful, in tones so shocked that the waiter at the bar looked up from his copy of Esquire. "You mean leave dear Old Alma Mater, after all our hard work? What of The Sheepskin? What of The Better Way of Life that we hoped for, after our years of study were over? Are we to admit defeat now?" The tall conspirator was agitated, and gestured ridiculously with flattered kleenex.

The shorter conspirator, Penniless Perkins, shrugged his thin shoulders and his voice trembled on the brink of a sob:

"What else can we do?" he asked. "Can we support our families, pay for transportation, buy books and all the other necessities of life at dear Old Alma Mater with less income than old Hon. Glyndale spends on cigars, or can't we? I say we must have a higher allowance or else give up our education."

"Ah!" said a devil-may-care voice from behind the table, "A subversive influence, eh?"

Penniless Perkins and Mournful Mullins jumped guiltily, and turned to see an angelic countenance surveying them mockingly through the thick atmosphere: under a well-brushed dark Homburg, cool, sardonic eyes met their gaze, and a neat dark moustache showed above a nonchalant grin.

"The Saint," exclaimed Penniless and Mournful in terror.

"Yes," replied the calm, neat countenance beneath the Homburg, "I see you know me. Now explain all this criminal talk about increased allowances, or I shall be inclined to deal extremely harshly with you." And he turned his determined, steel-grey eyes on the conspiratorial Penniless.

"Why," apologized Penniless in a quavering voice, "I didn't mean any harm. It's just that I don't think student veterans can afford to live. Especially," he added tearfully, "those with families and little mouths to feed."

"That," said the Saint coolly, "is not the question. Your remark smacked of revolutionary doctrine to me, and I take it you realize that my purpose is the eradication of subversive activities at Alma Mater. Don't you know that it is remarks of this kind that play right into the hands of Communists, Socialists, and everyone else who doesn't like the government?" The cool eyes were stern, and the sardonic smile held a threat of retribution.

Penniless shivered. "I'm terribly sorry," he pleaded. "I must have been drunk, Saint. You see, I've just drunk half a glass of beer on an empty stomach, and my nerves are bad, too. I won't let it happen again."

The devil-may-care smile softened somewhat, and the steely eyes relented. "Very well," said the Saint, "but make certain this time is the last. As for your problems," he went on sympathetically, "I can solve those for you in short order." And a well-manicured hand reached out to drop an engraved card on the table.

As Mournful Mullins reached quickly for the card, the Homburged head disappeared from view, and an admonishing, sardonic voice floated back from the shadows of the window: "Remember, now, no more subversive activity."

Mournful and Penniless quickly assented, and turned back to read the small, gold-lettered card: MEPHISTOPHELES & SONS
Dealers in New and Used Souls

Student Loans our Specialty—Souls accepted as security.

The conspirators were overjoyed. "But what's the address," wondered Penniless. "I'd like to go around right away and get some cash," and his fingers wandered absently through his empty pockets.

"Just bring the matter up to your Veterans' Society at Alma Mater," responded the cool tones of the Saint from the window. "They'll know all about it."

"Thanks a million, Saint," rejoined both the conspirators. "We certainly will."

There was the sound of a window softly closing. Once again the Saint had fought crime—and won.

CAT'S Treasure Isle

If it is true that the purest enjoyment in fiction reading is to be had between the ages of ten and eighteen, then it is equally true that children are never as fully involved in stage drama in their adult lives, as when they are young. The real world is never afterwards as remote, romance never envelops them as completely in an imaginative world, which is for two or three hours, the only world. The theatre itself is a novelty for most children, and their pleasure is heightened by the rarity and unfamiliarity of a delightful treat. Children love the bright lights, costumes and scenery of the stage, and if the actors are able to create the atmosphere of fairyland, they are not worried by the technicalities of production.

It is therefore a great pity that more entertainment like "Treasure Island", which is currently being produced by the Canadian Art Theatre every Saturday afternoon, cannot be provided for them. I do not wish to suggest that children are uncritical; on the contrary, it is claimed for them that they are among the first to spot affectation and insincerity, but in spite of their sensitivity they are generally a most sympathetic and appreciative audience.

The CAT presentation of Robert Louis Stevenson's adventure story, while pleasing them with colour and excitement, was badly adapted for a young audience in two respects. In the first place, it prefaced each of its three acts with a fairly long prose exposition by loudspeaker. As one of the adults put it, this sort of thing is "passing the buck". What ought to have been adequately carried within the boundaries of the play itself was handled instead in these narrative prefaces, which no one could possibly have heard, as the noise in the Victoria Hall auditorium drowned them out. It would have been difficult to hold an adult audience by such a method, even if the voice of the narrator had come from the front of the hall. With the loudspeaker unstrategically placed in the rear, it was a device which failed badly. In addition the play itself was too long.

The other important defect was the diction of the actors. There was scarcely one who was not unintelligible at one time or another, speaking his lines too quickly, or trying to make himself heard over the clamour raised by other members of the cast. This may be considered a good device for communicating excitement, — I don't feel it was very effective.

Treasure Island will be presented again at Victoria Hall on three consecutive Saturday afternoons, November 8th, 15th, and 22nd. D.V.

LETTER FORUM

Financial Worry

Dear Sir,

In view of the several letters recently published concerning student veterans' affairs and the approaching meeting of the McGill Student Veterans' Society, I feel it necessary to clarify some of the issues under discussion in your column. As past president of the Dawson Student Veterans' Society and a delegate to the National Conference of Student Veterans last year I feel qualified to do so.

The Pensioners' Brief submitted by Mr. LeMesurier of the McGill Society was an able and forthright statement of the needs of these student vets. Undoubtedly it was a contributing factor in forcing the Federal Government to reverse its original stand on this question. It would be incorrect though to think that this was an original idea of the McGill S.V.S. and that last year's executive was solely responsible for gaining this concession. This particular point was raised in the first brief ever submitted to the Federal Government by the N.C.S.V. in 1946 and also brought to the attention of the Canadian Legion who subsequently supported and fought for our proposals. Again, at the second National Conference a similar resolution urging full training benefits for pensioners was passed.

On the question of housing, Mitch Bourke, the McGill Society's Housing Director, was extremely helpful in gaining accommodation for the few Dawson student vets who entered McGill last January, and should be commended for his good work in that respect. But at the most such accommodation is a stop-gap. What was needed last year, and more so now, is a positive policy on the national housing question around which the Society can rally all student vets. The final report of the N.C.S.V. Housing Panel which incorporated the Canadian Legion Brief is a minimum program. We must throw our full weight behind the Legionnaires, both local, and nationally, who are fighting to investigate and clean up the whole housing scandal.

The most important problem facing student vets today is still the financial one. Here the McGill Society and its delegates to the 1946 Conference have a shocking record. Despite the original motions passed at its first meeting last October, despite the majority opinion of 700 replies to its first questionnaire; despite the desire of 60 per cent of its membership when polled on the financial question just before the Christmas Conference, both Frank Common and Bill Archer voted against any increase in the government grants at the conference. What clearer mandate could the McGill delegates have been given? Despite all this above Bill Archer spoke against not only the proposal for the $20-$40.00 increase, but also opposed the motion of his fellow delegate (Allistair Fraser) for a "sliding scale" increase as well. Fran Common as head of the delegation said "nothing".

When the compromise motion of a cost of living bonus was finally passed both Bill Archer and Frank Common were in the small minority who voted against it. Their action on a question of such vital concern to tens of thousands of student veterans was nothing short of a breach of faith.

If the McGill Student Veterans' Society is to function as the virile organization which it was originally intended to be, it must elect a leadership consistent with its aims. I therefore appeal to all student vets sincerely interested in an active

THE FASCIST PATTERN
(Christian Science Monitor)

There are two patterns of thinking which lead away from civil liberties and toward the police state. They represent the extremes of the "left" and the "right." This newspaper has repeatedly warned that Americans' current concern with communism tends to leave what are loosely called the "fascist" elements of the right comfortably inconspicuous in a shadow of near-respectability.

But how can these "fascist" attitudes be recognized? They fall into a pattern which the Christian Register has endeavored to describe. Followers of the American fascist pattern, says this periodical, usually reveal some or all of the following characteristics:

Racism, in some form.
Anti-Semitism.
Anti-foreignism.
Flamboyant nationalism.
Isolationism.
Defeatism toward efforts at international co-operation.

Indiscriminate condemnation of anyone near to or left of centre—lumping liberals, reformers and internationalists with communists and fellow travelers.

Indiscriminate condemnation of organized labor, lumping the good with the bad.

Second-guessing, elliptical endorsement of fascist and Nazi regimes.

And the Register lists some others.

The Americans who evidence all or even many of these attributes are probably few and of themselves constitute no great menace. But a good many earnest people may be letting their thinking run in two or three of these directions. Taken together, such attitudes swell the core of reactionism. And that does bear watching.

"There's a good type for the fraternity!"
"Perfection... check! Let's make our opening bid with a Sweet Cap."

Dents, Fizzeds Each Nose Out Lawyers

In a softball doubleheader played in the gym yesterday, Law II dropped two games, one to Dents II, 7-5 and the nightcap to Phys. Ed. III by a 14-11 count.

In the opener, Starle and MacDonald led the Dentists to victory with Polos pitching air-tight ball in the pinches. Barclay and Godin shone at the plate for the Lawyers.

The second game was a walk-away for the Phys. Eds. until the last half of the last inning when the lawmen, on the short end of a 14-0 score, put themselves back in the ball game by notching eleven runs, and they were only denied a victory by a brilliant catch by Spence with the sacks loaded. The game was featured by a Fizzed triple play in the 1st and two four-play clouts by Spence, while Norman chipped in with three doubles. The lawyers were sparked by Sirota and Godin with three hits each.

By BERT

Dear Ma,

I happened to be strolling by the St. Hyacinthe Auditorium the other night and saw hordes of people on their way inside. You know how curious I am Ma, so I went up to a fellow and in my most polite voice said:

"Say Mac, what's cooking in there?"

"Je ne comprends pas," he said.

Being bilingual I changed my tactics.

"Dites-moi, Alphonse," j'ai dit. "Qu'est-ce qu'il fait dedans."

"Oh," he said, "The hockey team representing McGill university, namely the Redmen, are visiting the hometown Gallos, with mutual massacre as the intention. Now this is a shame, as the local lads are pastmasters at the noble art of murder and bloody butchery. Why," he went on, "during the meat strike, they had to stop playing because their local of the butchers and slaughterers union ordered them to stop scabbing. Therefore," he added, "those poor students will be lucky to see the light of the next dawn."

Whipping out my trusty spoon, I proceeded inside with visions of gore galore before my eyes. I wanted to get a closer look at the battle so I seated myself behind the McGill bench where the Redmen were lacing on their last pair of skates ere leaving this world.

Then the game started, Ma, and all predictions looked as if they were going to be borne out, except for the fact that the McGill jockies refused to drop dead according to the script. The local boys began to get no little peeved.

Ever hear of referees Ma, I have, but I don't think there were any there that night. There were a couple of fellows wearing white sweaters on the ice but I think they were members of the local figure skating club who couldn't get off the rink in time. One of them blew his whistle once but that was only because he sneezed while it was in his mouth.

Seeing as how the referees weren't interested, Ma, the players decided to heck with the puck, let's get on with the game. And they sure did.

Then, Ma, it happened. One of the boys in Brown dropped Cy Biegler (Bugs in the program) on his noggin which I am inclined to believe was resented by the person in question. Cy stood up and swung. The Saint swung back and then they locked in mortal combat.

That fight could have been stopped without any trouble, Ma except that everyone just stood around and watched so the participants were bound to fight it out to the end.

Once instructions were given to referees to let the fighters alone and these "refs" (?) obeyed this to the letter. This might work out sometimes but in this case the one scuffle developed into a general melee with all the players involved and the situation got completely out of hand. Order was eventually restored, but, not before there had been some lively bouts.

Everyone but the players, seemed to enjoy themselves, Ma, and no one had a better time than little Michael Fisher Jr. who was watching his daddy in action for the first time in his young life. Junior's sole comment as his father was snowed under a flock of the Saints during the thick of the fray was:

"Oh look, Daddy saw down."

All this just goes to prove, Ma, that the Redmen will be able to handle themselves, at all times.

That's all for now.

Your loving son,

BERT.

Dawson Drops Rugby Fixture Over Weekend

The sun shone bright on our old Dawsonian home last Saturday, but even its rays were of no avail as the Red and Blue Dawson Dynamos were trampled into the ground by a far superior Loyola football squad to the tune of a 35-6 defeat. Jerry O'Donohue, the St. John's coach, need not start pulling out those remaining red hairs from his palate, though, as this West-end team is of the best having not tasted defeat now in five games and this win gives them the league championship.

They really looked like champions too, with their star-studded line-up including such notables as Bill Cowan, that swift and shifty runner who is really a picture to watch but a devil to tackle; 'Klasie' Kisellius who also knows how to use his feet; and quarter Ron Sutherland who is a triple threat man with a head on his shoulders. The Dynamos' stars may be picked from 'More Guts Than Brains' quarterback George Stephens and end 'Touchdown' Bergey, who along with Bill Young formed the pass attack trio that put over Dawson's lone major. The shining stars of the Dawson lineup however were the men on the line who formed a mad charging wall that held back all Loyola line bucks until late in the third quarter and made some pretty good holes for

Double Trouble

The McFarlane brothers, Bob, left and Don, right have caused rival intercollegiate rugby coaches many a headache over a period of three years. They'll be in Montreal this coming Saturday when the Wild Mustangs train their sights on Vic Obeck's Redmen. Bob leads the point-making race with 52 points while Don is runner-up with 28.

Harriers Vie For Standard Cup This Sat.

The "Standard" 5-mile Provincial Championship Road Race, under the auspices of the Montreal Track and Field Club, is being held Saturday at 1 p.m. sharp with several entries already received.

The race starts at the North Branch Y.M.C.A., corner of St. Viateur and Park avenue, and proceeds up St. Viateur to Stuart, then on Cote St. Catherine road to Descelles, turns left to Maplewood, back to Bellingham, down to Cote St. Catherine, proceeding east to Laurier, turn left at the first block back to St. Viateur with a 300-yard home stretch to the finish at the North Branch Y. The course record of 25 minutes, 26 seconds, was made in 1931 by Clarrie Frankton of M.A.A.

MCGILL STRONG

The event is primarily a team race, clubs being allowed six men on each team, with the first four finishers on each team to count, the winning team to hold the "Standard" trophy for one year. McGill, winners for the past two years, will have a strong team with Fenton, Ed Ballon, who tied for first place in the individual race last year, George Gilmore and McGeechey. Other teams entered are M.T.F.C., Club Canadian St. Henri, Laval, MacDonald College and Dawson. Entry forms may be obtained from R. M. Calder, 6711 Coolbrooke avenue, N.D.G.

HORSE TALK

Have you ever contemplated taking up riding only to be discouraged by the comic but courageous attempts of some urban cowboy that had dared to trade a drug-store stool for a rented horse? Don't let this stop you for he is thoroughly enjoying himself.

Don't shy away, as you are now ready for the first step which consist of meeting the HORSE. The important thing to remember when you get introduced to your first mount is to give him the proper impression, because that is what he will go by once you get on his back. You must look patient but firm, kind but determined, gentle but strong, stupid but intelligent. The ordeal of crowding all those characteristics into your face at the same time rest on you.

Here endeth the lesson; meanwhile if you want to do some riding and prove what lars we are, here is some straight information.

The M.O.C. has three afternoon riding sessions a week starting from Sunnyside Stables, 3620 Hutchison St. at approximately 2 p.m. Call these people for reservations:

Tuesdays: Denyse Beraha, WI 4762.

Thursdays: Bruce Phillips Ma. 9181 Jo. 440.

Fridays: John Venters, FI 2874.
Friday afternoons include free instruction.

Junior Water Poloists Seek Fourth Victory

Four straight! That's the battle cry of the junior McGill water polo team as they meet the Sir George Williams College septet tonight in the Y.M.C.A. pool. The Georgians are somewhat of an unknown entry in the league as they have only played one game so far.

The muscular mermen from McGill have downed Y.M.H.A., Nationale, and M.A.A.A. in their previous league starts, and must win their encounter tonight to keep pace with the Y.M.C.A. Reds.

Don Walter, Jim Ross, and Bill Osterman will again provide the attacking power for the Redmen. Walter has notched eleven tallies in league play this year, while Ross and Osterman have garnered ten goals between them.

DEFENCE STRONG

Bub Mullan, Pete Cameron and newcomer Job Johnson will be the defence trio, and are expected to give Goalie Greg Austin plenty of protection. Reliable Mike Langue-doc and freshman player Walt Mingie will also see action. Mingie replaces Hal Corrigan who will enter the hospital shortly for an operation.

Coach Jimmy Rose will initiate supper meetings after each Thursday practice to talk about the games of the past week. He intends to hold these in the Union. The team will probably shift their practice site to either Community Pool or Legion Hall for several practices in the coming weeks in an effort to accustom the team to playing in a larger pool.

Opening Tilts Dawson Floor Hockey Tonite

Tonight at seven o'clock the floor hockey season at Dawson College officially opens.

A series of games will be played beginning with Murderers Row vs. Demons and ending with Manglers vs. Safecrackers.

The series will continue Wednesday evening featuring such famous teams as Skunk Hollowers Beerless Wonders and Boobie Boys.

The floor hockey league consists of separate groups with five teams to a group. Each group plays inde-

Pucksters To Hear Clarence Campbell At Gym Tomorrow

Tomorrow afternoon in the lecture room of the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium, Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League will give a talk on the new hockey rules and regulations. The lecture will be delivered before the members of the McGill Hockey Club and any other interested observers.

Mr. Campbell, who succeeded to the presidency two years ago, upon the resignation of Red Dutton, besides being a sportsman of note, is also a soldier and scholar of some reputation. He was a Rhodes Scholar during his undergraduate days, and was later a lawyer of repute. During the war he was made a member of the Order of the British Empire for services rendered while in the Armed Forces.

After the talk Dave Campbell, the mentor of the Big Red Pucksters, will say a few words on McGill's prospects in the hockey field for the coming season, and will answer any questions put to him concerning hockey. Dave is another distinguished personage in the sporting world. After service in World War I, as a sergeant, he went to work for Sherwin Williams, and their entry in the old Commercial League.

In the late twenties he took over the command of the M.A.A.A. team and guided them to the Canadian Amateur Championship and the Allan Cup in 1930. A few years later he went on to take over leadership of the Victorias in the Q.S.H.L. With the advent of second world embroglio, Dave joined the Army again and while overseas coached the R.C.M.E. team to Army Hockey Championship. After the war, he came to coach the big Red team at McGill and in his first year turned out a grand team that won the Intercollegiate Championship in a thrilling play-off with Toronto, that saw them come from behind a 4-1 Varsity lead to win 5-4.

Last year they lost the championship in an equally thrilling game to the same Varsity team they had beaten the year before. This year should again see another exciting race right down to the wire.

The junior team will have a chance to show its wares this Saturday night.

pendently of the other with no team playing more than two nights a week. The league is under the capable management of Hutchy Hutchison, who is assisted by Norm Lang and Andy Lesage. All three are outstanding players.

LARGE CROWDS

The champion popularity of the game is shown by the fact that league games last year enjoyed spectator crowds up to 300 while tournament games were witnessed by 500 to 1,000 spectators.

The champion team of last year's contestants was the Alkies. However, even though most of this team has been transferred to McGill, plans are being made to promote exhibition games between McGill and Dawson and Dawson students may once again see the powerful playing of the Alkies.

One of the most talked about teams that have entered the league is the Ironmen which has most of the Dawson weight lifters as players. These iron men have a range of 200 pounds each. To offset this, one of last year's outstanding players of the Flying Frenchmen was also one of the shortest men on the team.

Vets Society Financial And Presidential Reports

Pres. Common Gives Details On Activities

The past year has been one of unusual interest to the student veteran body of McGill University. Before proceeding, may I remind you all of the debt of gratitude which we owe to the many active members of the Society, individuals, authorities and organizations, without whom we should never have achieved our measure of success.

With the urgent and pressing nature of new business, as well as the election of new officers, which will come before this meeting, may I simply point out that every resolution adopted at the last annual meeting has been handled as directed. The several reports presented will deal with this in some detail. In addition to the proposed programme elected during that meeting, efforts have been made in other directions; for example, pensioners, book allowance, adjustment of wives' earned income, American student veterans, etc.

The most notable success was the achievement of Ross LeMesurier who carried on a campaign which resulted in reconsideration by the Government and an Order-in-Council permitting pensioners to receive full pension and educational allowance. His work cannot be too highly commended. As to the future programme, this Executive has recommendations for presentation to this meeting.

EMPLOYMENT

As you know, Univet has been absorbed by the McGill Placement Service under Director Colin M. McDougall. May I record our appreciation of the splendid work done by Ernie Temple and his executive in the operation of Uni-Vet enterprises? Every member is encouraged to discuss his present employment problems with Major McDougall whose organization is efficient and effective. Student veterans now have representation on the Student Advisory Committee of the McGill Placement Service. The President of this Society is, ex-officio, a member of the Committee of which the Service Director is chairman.

REPORT ON GRANTS

At last year's election meeting the Executive were instructed to campaign for an increase in grants. To effect this a delegation of three members of the Executive met the minister of veterans' affairs and the minister of finance in Ottawa. These ministers categorically stated the government would not entertain the possibility of an increase, giving two main reasons; in their opinion the government had provided more generously for student veterans than for any other discharged groups; each minister emphasized the position that the grants were originally considered and are still considered as an aid to education, rather than a complete underwriting of all costs of the educational course.

With this point-blank refusal by the government the Executive considered the matter and a general meeting was called. This meeting had to be adjourned before the matter was settled for lack of a quorum. It was then proposed by Alistair Fraser that a referendum be sent out, and he prepared it for distribution to all members.

The three choices were answered as follows: to campaign for an across-the-board increase, 47; to campaign for a sliding scale increase or category system, 105; to discontinue the campaign for any increase, 101. There were thus three views to represent at the conference but a decided majority against a blanket increase.

NATIONAL CONFERENCE

At the N.C.S.V., Len Starkey, a delegate and a McGill Student, presented the case for the "across-the-board" increase and his motion, seconded by Lou Gottheil of Dawson was moved on the floor of the conference but was defeated. The "sliding-scale" was argued by Al Fraser and after a long discussion with several conflicting votes, it lost by a slim majority to the motion asking the government to consider granting a cost-of-living bonus. This had been presented by the delegates of MacDonald College, McGill University. Discussion by Bill Archer on the discontinuance of the campaign was limited to a period of three minutes in the general meeting. He having acted as chairman during the lengthy sessions of the financial panel, had no voice in that discussion. The N.C.S.V. has been pressing Ottawa to consider the "cost-of-living bonus" plan but without success to date.

FOUR CHOICES

There are four ways student veterans can receive the necessary financial assistance to complete their courses.

a) Draw upon their own savings or family resources, which of course is not possible for all veterans, but takes care of a number.

b) To work during the summer and accumulate a reserve to carry them through the winter. Labor is scarce today and this method is open to all but a few veterans.

c) To apply to the Veterans' Loan Board for a loan up to $500 a year, without interest until five months after graduation. With this course available, there is no need for any student with a reasonable scholastic record to drop his college course for lack of money.

d) A campaign could be carried on for an increase, but in my opinion, there seems little hope of obtaining it.

AMERICAN VETERANS

Successful Vets-Dos were held in the McGill C.O.T.C. Mess through the kindness of Lt.-Col. R. H. E. Walker and under an active committee headed by Miss Mary Molson, now Mrs. Jim Iverson.

During the summer, personal checks were made with students and authorities regarding individual problems. Personal negotiations were also carried on by myself between the Federal Department of Veterans' Administration in Washington and the National Commander of the American Legion concerning the administrative difficulties of American students studying in Canada under the GI Bill and Public Law 16. Special advisors were sent to Montreal and Ottawa.

On the retirement of Dean Cyrus MacMillan and Dean J. C. Meakins at the summer convocation, a gift was presented to each. These men are most anxious that we accept their sincere thanks and that we understand their complete confidence in our future.

The Executive feel that the Society should be continued to deal with problems peculiar to student veterans; for example, the recent case of student pensioners, and should encourage student veterans to participate in other organizations dealing with these problems on a wider basis, for example, the Canadian Legion, community groups, political parties, etc.

I am extremely grateful to every member of the Executive and of the committees established. Each one has given untiring effort and complete co-operation in the prosecution of our tasks. I consider it a great pleasure and privilege to have served in any capacity in this Society and to have felt that the majority of veterans were supporting our many and sincere efforts to achieve a better situation.

The Doomed Revue

Dear Sir,

I was truly amazed to see a story in a recent issue of The Daily stating that there would be no professionals allowed to take any part in this year's Red and White Revue by decree of the Students' Executive Council.

Does this mean that the Revue will be unable to hire professional musicians? If so this will mean that the very backbone of the show will be removed as there are not enough talented students, willing to give the time, on the campus to take the place.

I have watched the Revue improve tremendously over the past couple of years after being discontinued during the war, and now it seems that the Council is trying to ruin this year's Revue through their ruling.

It isn't that the Revue executive is spending the Council's and therefore the student's, money as the Revue finances itself through its ticket sale. Last year the show did lose a little money but that was because it had to pay federal tax—a fact which was not accounted for in the budget.

In which case Mr. Editor, what is the reason for the Council's attempt to doom this year's Revue to failure?

Sincerely,
IAN FRASER,
B. Comm. III.

Co-eds Complain

The Editor,
McGill Daily.

Dear Sir,—

It seems that certain men on the McGill campus are ignorant of the fact that the election of the president of the WOMEN'S UNION is not quite in their field of endeavor.

We are all for open campaigning in any election, but if that election involves a woman's post, the women are perfectly capable of looking after their own open campaigning without male interference.

We realize that the important position the presidency of the Women's Union occupies on the Students' Executive Council might affect men's interests—BUT her primary function is to represent women students and NOT to support any one clique.

We realize that this letter is being written at an inopportune time, but hope it will express our regret at the male interference we have noticed, and whoever is elected will see to it that this influence will not continue.

Although we are not feminists, we hope that the women's candidates in the future will not become tools of men's pressure groups.

Very sincerely,
BEVERLY REID,
BETTY ANN HENLEY,
MARY FISHER.

Special trips to Montreal will be made periodically when it is necessary to make use of the special training facilities of H.M.C.S. Donnacoma, though it is understood such trips will be kept to a minimum so as not to interfere with university studies.

Students interested in joining the Division are asked to contact Lt. Cdr. Bjorkland, Senior Divisional Officer, in the Chemistry Lab. or at his residence. Recruiting will also be carried out at the Tuesday night parades.

Among this evening's campus activities that promise a measure of entertainment and enjoyment is the meeting of the Rifle Club, which is to be held in the classroom adjoining the range up at the Gym from 5 o'clock on. This meeting has been called for the registration of new members, and, during the course of the evening, some instruction in small arms will take place.

The Philosophical Society is to be addressed this evening by Irving Layton, M.A., of the department of Economics and Political Science. It is strongly advised that you get to the Common Room (R.V.C.) before 8 o'clock, for the subject of the address is an interesting one: "Dialectical Materialism." You don't have to be a member of the group to attend and enjoy this address.

On Wednesday, the 6th, the Camera Club meets in the New Room of the Union at 7.30. This promises to be of considerable interest to camera fans and faddists, for there will be a period of discussions upon subjects dear to a camera-man's heart. There will be a contest during the course of the evening, and the best photo is supposed to be published in this paper... quite a prize!

This Friday at 8 p.m. the Union Ballroom will witness the general annual meeting of the University Gliding Club. A vast expansion program will be under discussion and if membership is sufficiently large an intercollegiate meet will be staged—old McGill taking on the Queen's Gliding Club. Flying will start locally just as soon as members take out insurance to the satisfaction of the S.E.C. So if flying is one of your interests, make a point of turning out to the general annual meeting come Friday.

First meeting of the McGill Hot Jazz Society, to be held tomorrow night in the Music Room of the McGill Union, will be featured by a recorded program outlining the growth and developments of American jazz music. The session is scheduled for 8 o'clock.

Commencing with New Orleans, and tracing the musical development of this popular idiom through to its present "32nd Street" development, the recorded program will include work by such jazz masters as Bunk Johnson, Louis

Armstrong, King Oliver, Bix Beiderbecke, Frank Teschenmacher, Eddie Condon, Benny Goodman and Count Basie, as well as the newer music of Ben Webster, Lester Young and Charlie Shavers.

Red and Blue gains.

EARLY SCORE

Scoring was opened in the first two minutes of play as Ron Sutherland of the Maroon Raiders recovered a Dawson fumble on the first play and kicked it over the boundary for a rouge. After a few nice runs by Johnston, Dawson again fumbled the ball and following an exchange of kicks over centre Bill Cowan ran back a boot by Young in a brilliant display of footwork shifting around Dawson players for 50 yards until he was finally brought down by the only man between himself and the line on Dawson's 13-yard line. Kisielus went over from here for the touchdown with McCahey converting. On the very next play with Loyola kicking off to Dawson, Gutelius intercepted a St. Johns lateral on the runback to go over for Loyola's second major which was unconverted, making the score at the end of quarter 12-0 for Loyola.

A series of fumbles by each squad starting off the second half led to Loyola obtaining possession of the ball on Dawson's 40 where Cowan again displayed his marvelous footwork by running through for a touchdown from 35 yards out, McCahey converting, to make the score at half read Loyola 18, Dawson 0.

DAWSON WEAKENS

The Dawson touch came at the beginning of the second half when a pass for thirty yards from Young to Bergey put the ball on Loyola's 30 and two other completed passes from Stephens to Wilcox and from Young to Bergey over the line gave Dawson their only touch which Wilcox converted. The Red and Blue line was now weakening from the pressure and near the end of the quarter a series of line plunges by Loyola moved the ball to the 24 yard line where Sutherland took two runs to put the ball over for an unconverted touch to make the score 23-6 for Loyola. The next marker came on a forward from Sutherland to Kelley and the last one was made by Paul Shaughnessy on the last play of the game when he intercepted a Dawson forward and ran 15 yards for the touch. Both of these were converted by McCahey to make the final score read Loyola 35, Dawson 6.
